

Welcome to the Bolin Centre

The Bolin Centre for Climate Research is a multi-disciplinary collaboration between Stockholm University, KTH and the Swedish Meteorological and Hydrological Institute. The research program strives to understand natural climate evolution and variability, as well as changes imposed by the increasing human impact on the Earth System. The main site for the Bolin Centre is the Frescati campus, located in the northern parts of the city of Stockholm.

How to get here

By air to the city centre

There are a number of airports in the wider Stockholm area, including Arlanda, Skavsta, Västerås and Bromma.

Arlanda Airport is the main Stockholm airport and is situated 40 kilometres north of the city centre.

- The fast train service Arlanda Express and the coach service Flygbussarna runs between Arlanda and the central station in Stockholm. www.arlandaexpress.com; www.flygbussarna.se
- Journey by taxi from Arlanda to Stockholm usually costs about SEK 400-500. Please make sure to agree on a fixed price in advance.

Skavsta Airport is situated 1 hour and 20 minutes south of Stockholm.

- The coach service Flygbussarna runs between Arlanda and the central station in Stockholm. www.flygbussarna.se
- It is also possible to travel by regular train service SJ from nearby Nyköping to Stockholm. www.sj.se

Västerås Airport lies 1 hour and 15 minutes north-west of Stockholm.

- There are some coaches by Flygbussarna though they run rather infrequently. www.flygbussarna.se

Bromma Airport is a smaller airport located close to the city centre with flights to a limited number of destinations.

- More information is available on the airport's website. www.brommaairport.se

By local transport to the campus

There are extensive rail, bus and tram networks in the Stockholm area.

You can travel by the subway (underground/metro/tube) from the central station in Stockholm (T-centralen).

- Take the red line northbound direction to "Mörby Centrum" and get off at the station "Universitetet". The journey takes about 10 minutes. Ticket information for Stockholms lokaltrafik (SL), can be found at sl.se/en

You can take bus numbers 40, 70, 540 and 670 to the University. Get off at 'Universitetet norra' for the Frescati campus.

- Tickets must be bought before travel. Please visit sl.se/en
